

THE MANUAL ZONE

You are entering another dimension, a dimension of sight, a dimension of sound, a dimension of mind. You enter this realm with the key of imagination.

The building before you stands quietly alone. Its stone lay cold as it towers into the sky. Its hallowed halls remain silent and still, until a curious youth enters, enters with but the strange will to learn, only to find that he has stumbled across a lost dimension.

Look . . . the signpost up ahead! Your next stop:

WOOWW!

Pow" and "Wow." Two words often used to describe sounds or actions. But in this case, the only one of its kind, these two words come together to describe an event.

In this place, Pow Wow, a dimension of its own, comes alive. Here people choose to ignore common differences and participate in games like Dart-a-Teacher, Dunk Booth, Bingo, Cake Walk, and Cake Toss. There were things such as brownies, flowers, and candy for sale. There was even a pseudo jail run by the Thespians, where for just a couple of tickets a close friend could be incarcerated.

Along with all of the fun and games, the king and queen of Pow Wow were crowned. Out of all of the candidates, James Cole was chosen as king and Stacy Morse as queen. When the people filed out, anxious to return to their homes, they were not saddened, but excited for in another year Pow Wow would awaken once again.

Brave volunteer Flis awaits another dunking at Pow Wow.

Redskin Review...

Since the beginning of time, people have been looking for ways to entertain each other. One way was found through acting. Manual's form of entertainment is the Redskin Revue.

Due to technical difficulties beyond our control, the 1989 Redskin Revue had one act instead of the usual three.

In order to make the play more realistic, it was interrupted every so often with commercials. One commercial was for dead plants. Send a dead plant "if you care enough to send the very worst!"

There were commercials with dancing raisins and cologne sold by the gallon. The play was also interrupted with a brief news break.

The play was centered around a game show called the "Wheel of Misfortune". During a commercial break, the host was murdered. Who did it? Why? These are the questions that David Addison and Maddie Hays were hired to investigate.

The sponsor was art teacher Mrs. Terry Clark. Mr. Spinks helped build the set. The Wheel of Misfortune was written by Amy Grider.

David Addison (Tony Adams) and Maddie Hays (Jennie Timbs) question Ronald Reagan (Greg Wiley) to discover the murderer of Pat Kojak.

Wheel of Misfortune contestants Jason Broadstreet, Chris Cunningham, and Greg Wiley take turns spinning the wheel.

A Night of MEMORIES

King James Cole and Queen Debbie Maiden pose warm-heartedly on the most enchanted evening of their junior year.

The darkness of the night like a blanket enfolds the landscape. Then, in the distance, light breaks through the black barrier. Drawing closer, still closer, until the sign on the building up ahead is almost recognizable. But, what does it say?

The Convention Center, located in downtown Indianapolis, was the sight of the 1989 Junior Prom. One Moment in Time was the theme; blue and white were the colors. Ladies in their gowns and gentlemen in their tuxes all came for an evening that for some will be remembered indefinitely.

The first major event of the evening was the garder ceremony. Then, after a lot of dancing, came the crowning of the king and queen. The candidates presented themselves. Suddenly, an announcement: The King and Queen of the 1989 Junior Prom was James Cole and Debbie Maiden. The Court was made up of Dustin Church, Doug Warren, John Russell, Erica Burrin, Shawna Hacker, and Shawna Smith.

Entee Rudolf and Dustin Church will have cherishable memories of dancing the night away.

Spirit Invades

Manual's campus took on a new dimension when Spirit Week loomed overhead. A class hall decorating contest kicked off the Spirit Week festivities. Freshmen decked the first floor with "Cripple Ripple" signs. Sophomores draped second floor with streamers. Seniors overtook the cafeteria. Juniors won the contest with a display of balloons and streamers proclaiming "Rock the Rockets."

If an outsider had observed Tuesday at Manual, they probably would have thought our students had horrid taste. Wide ties, bow ties, printed ties, even ties promoting Manual spirit could be found up and down the halls.

"Manual has some hip love children," as Redskins grooved to show their enthusiasm during sixties day. The "hippies" expressed themselves with tie dye, peace signs, love beads, and bell bottoms.

"How kee-mo-sah-bee" echoed through the halls as our students transformed to real redskins. War paint was worn to prepare for Saturday's battle.

Friday was the greatest success. Red and white dominated the stands for the pep session. The freshmen destroyed the sophomores in the Powder Puff game while the seniors killed the juniors. Marius Cook was named Mr. Hunk of 1989.

Homecoming Spirit Shines

Red and white balloons signaled the beginning of Manual's 1989 Homecoming football game. This year there were many pre-game activities.

Saturday morning began with a car decorating contest. The winner was junior Renee Berry. A police escort got the parade moving in the right direction. The parade overflowed with truck loads of fans, football players, and cheerleaders showing the community their Manual spirit.

The Homecoming king and queen, James Cole and Nancy Pruett, were crowned during the half time activities. Once again, the Manual Alumni Band helped the candidates walk across the football field to the platform which held the homecoming court.

For the first time in two years, the Redskins lost their homecoming to the Broad Ripple Rockets after a close match. The final score was 21-12.

Partners in Education Partners in Education

The role of Eli Lilly is an important one to Manual. Lilly assists Manual in any manner it can to improve the educational opportunities for the students.

Lilly contributes time, materials, and tickets for cultural events for our students.

Eli Lilly also offers programs for our students. Some examples are "Big Brother — Big Sister," "What Does a Scientist Do?" and "Shadowing Experience for Students." Lilly now offers approximately sixty programs in all.

New things will be offered this year such as a Madrigal dinner and a Measurement and Precision demonstration.

The coordinator of the efforts and programs of the Manual staff and Eli Lilly & Company is Ms. Peggy Stuart.

At the Block M presentation Marion White, Senator Dan Coats and Shari Burgett listen to Eli Lilly representative Robert Bales speak about the importance of education.

In the vast omniverse of all creation, change is the only constant, and what changes more constantly than art? Nothing is more controversial in some cases than art. Nothing can please different kinds of people more than art. Although the art at Manual, at times, is in the shadows of peoples' minds, it still prevails to be a driving force in the community.

Manual's Art Department has won much acclaim in the past three years. Mrs. Clay, department head, has encouraged the students to enter a great number of contests. The results speak for themselves:

1988 Holiday Greeting Card Winners: Scott Bow (card published), Cindy Reed, Russell Stout, Ange Gammons;

Prelude Finalist: Anthony Parran

Art Exchange with U.S.S.R.: Tony Adams

Scholastic Art Contest: Lee Minnear, Jimmy Curry, Troy Smith, Jenny Lakstins, Jerry Luna (Gold Key Finalist), Tony Adams (Gold Key, Blue Ribbon);

Say No to Drugs: Jeremy Duncan (1st place), Samantha Davison (2nd), Chester Fos, Tony Parran, Cleo Nguyen, Jackie Allen, Wayne Elsey, Scott Bow;

500 Festival: Donnita Mathis (Grand Award), Tony Adams (1st), Wayne Elsey (1st), Brian Gansline (1st), Dawn Huff (1st), Jenny Wood (1st), Kenneth Hanna (2nd), Glen Odom (2nd), Rhonda Coley (3rd);

Herron School of Art Scholarship: Donnita Mathis;

1989 Holiday Greeting Card Winner: Chester Fox (card published).

Pleasure and pain come unmixed to no man." This may be true, but here at Manual the staff of our English department does its best to deal with both. How often do you run into a bunch of friends in the hall and find out they're talking about how good the English department is? Chances are that you haven't and probably won't. We tend to overlook those things we take for granted — like the fact that we can't avoid English. It's a staple of the American diet.

Students in the English department entered a variety of contests this year. One example of victory is Renee Berry winning the Downtown Optimist Essay Contest. Brad Key placed second.

Even though English is predictable, things do change. Mrs. Rice and Miss Copher assumed sponsorship of THE BOOSTER and the IVIAN. English teachers are now available every Tuesday and Thursday after school to tutor students who need help with English.

Next year the structure of the classes will change. The fall semester will be composed of Language and Composition, but don't forget about Humanities. The spring semester will consist of Literature and Composition, but don't forget those I-STEP tests.

And, just remember: Often times there is more to something than meets the eye.

Pleasure in Pain

Mrs. Miles' speech class listens and learns as senior Felicia Durgan presents her topic.

Working on her English assignment, freshman Leisa White completes yet another essay.

"How is it organized? A - Z? Fiction to non-fiction? Where's the copier? Do you have last year's SPORTS ILLUSTRATED? You know, the one with all the swim suits? What are periodicals? I need help!"

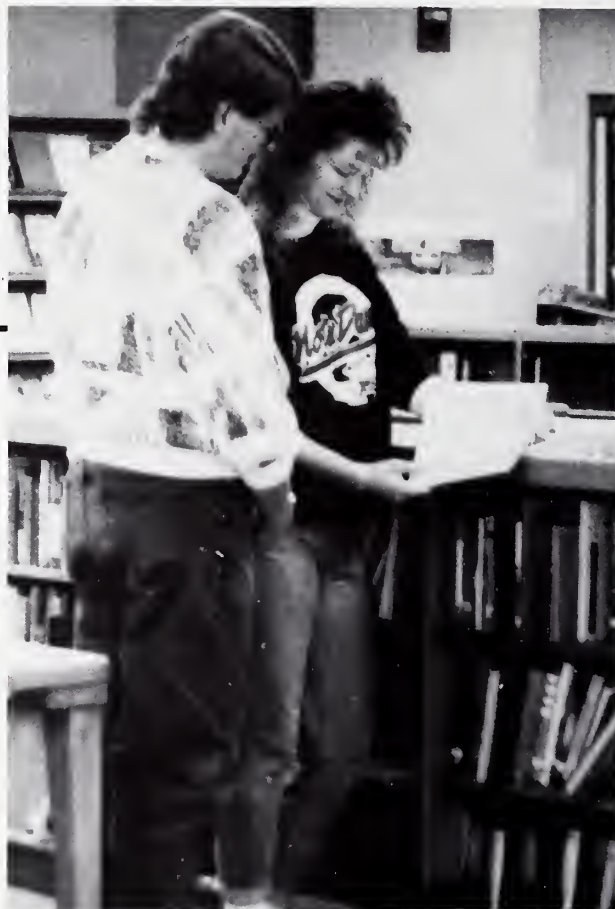

These are just a few of the questions that the brave volunteers in the Media Center hear every day.

Almost everyone in the building goes into the Media Center at one time or another. What is a Media Center you ask? Well, it's a library. But, it's more than a library.

It's the home of many a meeting. The faculty meets there frequently; new equipment is demonstrated there regularly; Lilly stages programs like "What Does a Scientist Do?" there often.

Mrs. Mary Rayburn, media director, Mrs. Annette Brayden, assistant, and Mrs. Trudy Waggoner, clerk, and their cast of thousands invite you to sample the Media Center any time.

The best part of any demonstration is actually having something to show. What is in the cage? Figure it out.

at Last

With the help of a computer, Wilbert Westmoreland constructs an atom.

In the computer lab, Tamara Ellington watches an experiment on the screen.

One of the highlights of class is getting OUT of class. Getting out and doing something different, something that doesn't quite seem like learning.

The favorite thing (other than skipping) is hearing the words "Computer Lab." Most classes, at one time or another, go to the computer lab.

It makes no difference if you're in English or Math or French or Business or Science. If there's a class, there's a program.

The SAT class uses a variety of programs to help raise the students scores. Home Economics has software for baby care. English classes use language arts programs and speed reader.

Teachers even use the programs when they're not in the classroom. Many have participated in the word processing classes which met on the weekends.

All in all, Manual's starting to get civilized.

EMHS ROTC

Manual's ROTC Pathfinder Team attended a three day field training exercise at Ft. Benjamin Harrison during October. A cadet officer candidate school was held during November. Five cadets from Manual qualified and were appointed 2nd Lt. by the U.S. Army. Cadets Latrice Hawkins, Sean Wright, Randy Pattison, Torenika Stoner, and John Trent were those who qualified.

Master Sergeant Willie Meek was assigned to Manual in November as an Army instructor.

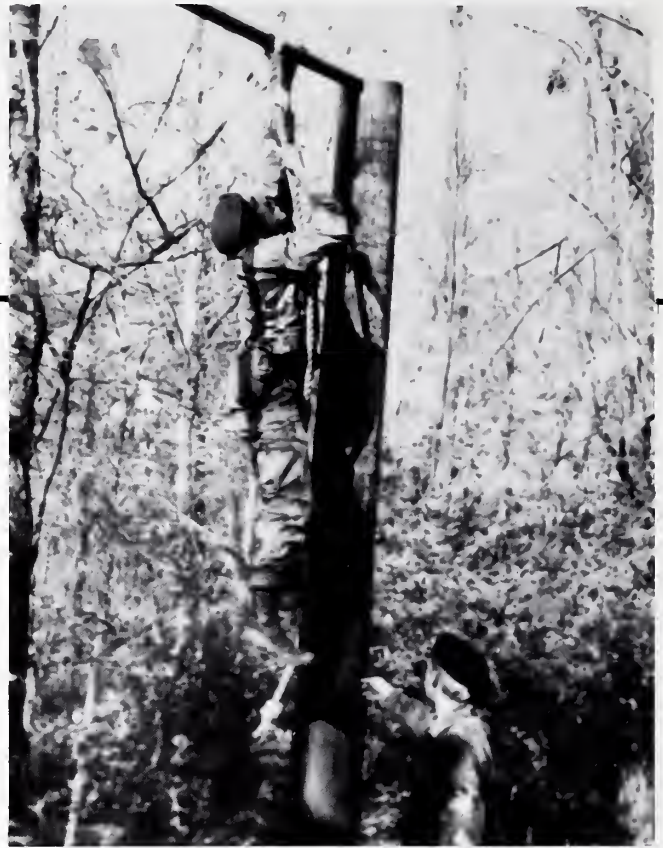

ROTC helps influence students to be model students and good Americans. The four major groups are Pathfinder, Rifle Team, Drill Team, and Color Guard.

Among the various things that the ROTC candidates learn are facing movements, the ranking system, reading maps, ROTC history and how to give commands.

ROTC is always willing to lend a helping hand at athletic events, and they even help work the concession stand. These guys (and girls, too) work extra hard to help Manual work. Thanks.

To the Future

Not everyone was meant to be an accountant, but if your ultimate destiny is a career in business, then the Business Education Department is a good place to start. The department provides such courses as Accounting, Small Business Ownership, Business Law, and Business Communications.

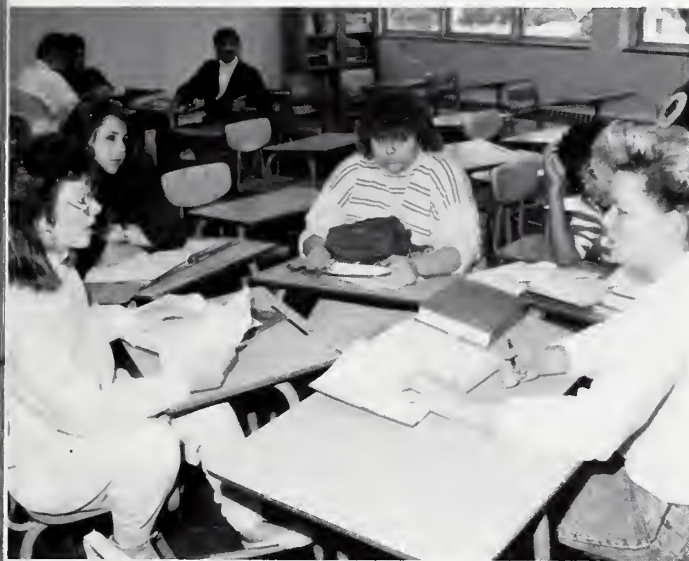

With the increasing use of computers, from microwaves to P.C.'s, students planning to continue their education can get the basics from high school business classes. For those planning to enter the job market after high school, entry-level skills are developed for both office and marketing occupations. Regardless of what the future holds, each one of us will have daily contact with business.

Typing is an intricate part of preparing for the business world.

Mrs. Stutsman sets the stopwatch as students prepare for a routine timed writing.

Through the Past

No department reflects the events of the world as well as the Social Studies Department. The teachers inform us of time gone by, how to interpret the many worlds that surround us, and how different people govern themselves.

In these changing times, there is not area of our school more current than Social Studies. Many events rocked the foundation of our society during this past year. The San Francisco earthquake, the capture of drug czar Noreiga, the crumbling of the Berlin Wall, the release of Nelson Mandela, the disintegration of our rain forests — all of these issues were covered in depth.

It is inevitable that each of us will come in contact with this department, primarily because Government and Economics are required to graduate.

Study groups work together to learn the latest government trends.

Mr. Belser listens carefully as senior Mike Everly tries to get his point across Gym is not just gym anymore; it has branched out into Health, Physical Education, and Drug Education. The Drug Education program was recognized as the #1 drug program in the state of Indiana this year. The program is still currently being considered for the "National Drug-free School" award. The Drug Education department has programs such as Operation Wake-up, student support groups, Natural Helpers, and others to inform students of the deadly dangers of drugs.

Advanced weights and conditioning and recreational sports are among the several new programs that have been added to that department. Gym isn't just throwing around a weight ball or jogging around a track. It's a whole lot more.

The Industrial Technology Department is currently in the second year of implementing a new curriculum based on industry, its associated technologies, and their impact on individuals and society. The content base is organized around productive activities that are used now and will continue to be used. The department has been rearranged into four areas: communications, construction, transportation, and manufacturing.

The department is presently offering a new course in drafting design. Along with the comprehensive classes, vocational classes such as electronics, auto mechanics, and industrial cooperative training are offered.

Buffet of Classes

Liquids and gases are both classified as fluids, but, while a liquid is virtually incompressible and its density very high, a gas can be easily compressed and has a low density and is mostly empty space.

Right about now you're probably thinking, "Who cares?" Well actually more people are interested in science at Manual High School than you think. For those planning to attend college and have a career in a scientific capacity, Manual offers a regular buffet of classes. Now we're not just talking about Physical Science; even though it is important too, but if one desires a major in science, classes like Biology, Chemistry, and Physics are readily available. So, the chemical make-up of peanut butter is somewhat sympathetic to . . . The End.

Students complete their work in Chemistry class.

Mrs. Thomas discussed the Phylum Mollusca in Biology class.

Mathematical Expressions

Our Math Department is always in competition with other area schools. Three students, Kenneth Hanna, Doug Cook and Lee Minnear, represented Manual in the Franklin College Math Day Program in October 1989.

Approximately 35-40 students from Manual will compete in the IPS High School Math Contest March 17th at Tech High School, and there will be twenty Manual students competing in the Marion County Math Contest at Butler University in May.

The Math Department added a mini class in probability and statistics this spring. The department also introduced the class, MAPS (Mathematics Achievement Through Problem Solving).

Manual students compete with the best and are the best!

Sometimes paying attention is the hardest thing to do when it's nice outside.

Basic Algebra is the stepping stone to the higher maths.

Norman wakes up, morning beams of sunlight glimmering through his bedroom window, and yawns. Suddenly he realizes that he has to get ready for school, so stepping out of bed and wandering into the kitchen, he sees it: the stove. "Gee" he says "maybe I should eat something." He drags out an array of pots and pans, pulls the eggs out of the refrigerator and, while walking over to the blue flame shimmering atop the range . . . "I don't know how to scramble an egg! Darn! I knew I should've taken that Home Ec. Class!" Poor Norman can't even boil water. For today he is at home alone, and Mommy is nowhere to be found. Today, Norman goes hungry.

The Home Economics Department at Manual High offers a lot more than basic egg scrambling technique, or how to stitch that nasty rip in your favorite shirt.

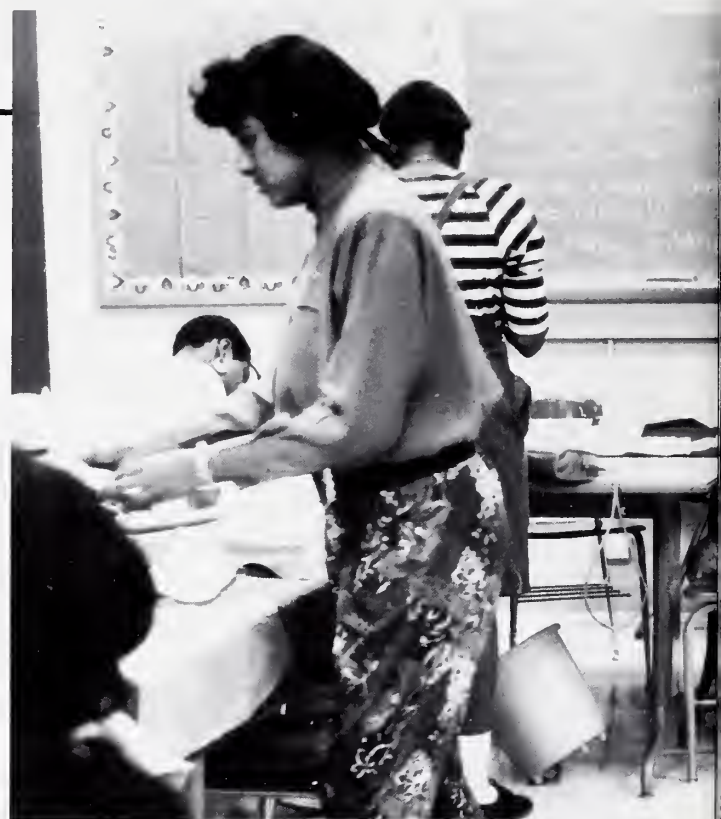

There seems in fact, to be a stigma attached to Home Economics of sewing and baking and learning proper kitchen utensil storage. As a matter of fact Home Ec. teaches valuable lessons needed to carry on day to day life, that everyone can use.

Classes like Child Development, Personal Development, Foods, and Needle Arts are currently being offered along with Microwave Cooking and Clothing Design. But there's more. Ms. Niarchos, the current Department Head, hopes to build upon the existing curriculum with classes like Family Relations, Consumer Education, and Culinary Arts. "It's not just stitching and stirring," she said.

Besides class work, the students also take part in a yearly poster contest sponsored by THE CENTRAL INDIANA DISTRICT DIETETIC ASSOCIATION, and students in Clothing Design hold a fashion show at Union Station, displaying the products of their creativity and hard work.

Home Economics is so much more than turning on a flame or baking your favorite pie. It teaches skills that are important in real life. It prepares students to today to be working adults of tomorrow.

Music

Manual's Music Department probably gets around the city more than any other department. From singing on the Circle to playing at Target during the holidays, Mrs. Bolin's department brings music to many different people. They're Manual's ambassadors.

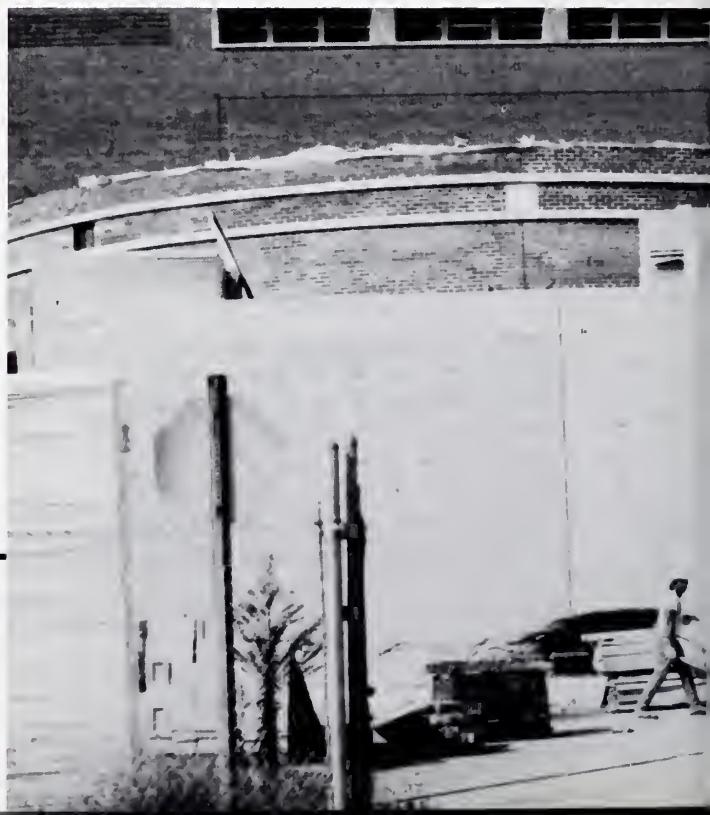

The Music Department consists of Concert Choir, Manualaires, A Band, B Band, Marching Band, Orchestra, and Glee Club. These groups have competed with other organizations around the state. The competitions have proved successful. In the spring of 1989, both the Choir and the Band won Division 1 Ratings (1st place) at the ISSMA Organizational Contest. The Marching Band was the first place trophy winner in the Southern Indiana Marching Band Festival, picking up first places for auxiliary, field commander, and percussion.

The most exciting addition to the Band Department's trophy collection is just a little bigger than a trophy. It's a whole new department. Literally. Construction on the new band wing began when school was out in June and should be finished this spring. Congratulations to the Band Department.

Day after day they assemble in the same gray room. The fluorescent light bounces off the cement walls, while they busily work to meet their deadline. The sounds of typewriters and muted words fill the air. Against the wall a clock is perched, faithfully measuring the restraint of time . . . in the Manual Zone.

The people on the IVIAN staff are more than a few pencil pushers trying to get their faces in the yearbook. Trying to fit a year in the life of a high school into 160 pages is, at times, more than difficult.

Working under pressure and dealing with deadlines is nothing unusual. Ruined film and lost copy sometimes plague the process but in the end the finished product is good.

The staff is varied. Some deal with layout and design; some are writers and photographers. Then, a few are editors. But, it's not about who you are or what you do. It's about working together to make the yearbook the best it can be.

Nothing is done in the Publications Office without money. Here Christine Mulliken, Suzann Wilson, and Sharon Kelley turn in their candy money to Mrs. Rice.

Many newspapers have been praised as well as scorned for their work. Other than the bigger, more established newspapers, not a lot of others are recognized, especially at the high school level. Even though most of them remain unknown, the high school newspaper plays an important role in keeping students informed and expressing student views on issues that matter to them.

For the first time in almost 80 years THE BOOSTER is facing financial troubles.

The '89 staff has relied on and done a lot of things to insure the three printings of THE BOOSTER in the fall semester. Things like increased ad sales, candy sales, Christmas wishes in the Christmas issue, and others have been supplemented by teacher and club donations.

The newspaper production class was dropped during the spring semester. There will be but one remaining issue produced by the advanced journalism class unless the financial position of THE BOOSTER is altered.

The dimension entered is one of flux. Sounds continually change, muscles constantly flex, and the mind proceeds to create. The dimension? Music.

Of all the dimensions a human can enter, the dimension of music is the most diverse. Here a body can find new and exciting ways to express one's self with creativity. Enjoyment is not just for the creator; it is also for the audiences.

Manual's Music Department for years has created enjoyment for a multitude of audiences.

"The show must go on," typifies the attitude of Mrs. Bolin's Concert Choir. They continually go into contest against themselves to test their own abilities . . . and win.

"Break a leg," should be the motto of the Manualaires. The motto is a symbol of luck, the very luck that has accompanied the vocal ensemble as they perform their dancing and singing abilities at nursing homes, churches, department stores, and even Union Station.

Mr. Fleck's Glee Club is a group of all female singers. The Glee Club visits places such as the Education Center and Christmas on the Circle, carrying the voices of Manual wherever they go.

Sitting in a classroom isn't where all of Manual's students get their education. They get it on the athletic field, they get it in the music room, and they even get it in an office. An office? Sure. They can actually work in an office or business and get experience . . . and credit. One step to working in an office involves being a member of Business Professionals of America.

Business Professionals of America is a club for students enrolled in vocational office occupations education classes. Whew. What a mouth full. What the club actually does is help develop leadership abilities and competency in office occupations. Additionally, it the club members can participate in district and state contests in their specialty areas. At the end of the school year, the members organize and conduct an employer appreciation banquet which is a highlight of the school year.

Just take a look at these professionals.

One of the most talked about topics of the last few years has been teenagers and their problems. One of the biggest problem is the problem is drugs. The last President's wife, Mrs. Nancy Reagan, adopted this topic as the issue she would work the closest with. The result of her association was the Just Say No campaign which involved leaders from all fields all over the world.

Manual came up with its own solutions to assist teenagers. Dr. Robert Hignite spearheads an innovative program in the Social Studies department which gives students hands-on experience in role playing, counseling, and learning.

The core of the program involves the student assistance program. The SAP is developed through Natural Helpers and Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD). These are classes that students take and receive credit. True, they learn about drugs and the influences of drugs, but they also learn to cope with other problems such as suicide, alcoholism, pregnancy, and depression. They also participate in Snow Ball and Indiana Teen Institute.

Sometimes it takes a lot to pull people together. However, nothing works to make people work like a team better than a natural disaster. In 1989, the United States experienced not just one national disaster of major proportions but two.

Nothing could have prepared the residents of the southeast for the full impact of Hurricane Hugo. We sat at home and watched the hurricane moving closer and closer while they watched out of their windows. The winds flattened towns that once were filled with thriving businesses.

One disaster was not enough. Then came the San Francisco earthquake in the middle of the World Series. Bridges fell, interstates crumbled, and lives were lost.

Both of these disasters depleted the Red Cross Disaster Relief Fund. In answer to a need, Indianapolis Public Schools decided to raise money and donate it to the Red Cross. Fifty schools joined this effort, but it was through the combined forces of Roines and Masoma that Manual turned in the most money: $365.00

Every once in a while we get a taste of the real world here at Manual. Not, of course, that Manual isn't real, but the real world always seems to be a bit different from the experiences that we have.

The real world entered Manual this year in the form of a human being — four human beings to be exact: Anita Herrera from Mexico City; Jaime Duarte, Colombia; Mats Bjoernstad and Liv Henriksveen, Norway.

If you think it's tough making a passing grade in English, try having a language like Norwegian as your native language and then taking an English class. They don't have pronouns. Have you ever tried to explain a pronoun to someone else?

All of the students have enjoyed their American experience and their American "families." Two things are at the top of the favorite list: American television and music. Most of the countries don't have as extensive programming as we do.

The big complaint is the food. American food is very different from that of South America and Europe. Another dislike is the price of things. All the students feel that American prices are much higher than the prices of their home countries.

Holy Cow!

⚡ Somewhere in the vast expanse of time man decided that there were too many things left unexplained. That within this abstract dimension we call our own there must be a cause for it all, a greater truth. And, in his never ending quest for knowledge, man found . . . baseball.

The varsity baseball team finished the '89 season with a winning record. Their winning season accumulated with the victory against state-ranked Cathedral High School.

This was one of the many games that the team held together and came through with a win. The only down-fall was an inadequate pitching staff. Coach Rosenstihl is looking forward to increasing the number of athletes in the program, considering the number of seniors leaving.

Before going out into the field, the girls get hyped.

Why is softball called softball anyway? Is the ball ready that soft? It's much larger than a regular baseball, that's true. But, if you got wopped in the head with a speeding softball, would it just bounce off? No. In fact it wouldn't. The nerf property is not in effect in this incident. Yet, in spite of this danger, softball is still played today.

This year the girls' varsity softball team won 47% of their games with a loss of 56%; that means 8 wins and 9 losses. Mr. Swinford, coach of the team, said, "Seniors returning should make this season the best in years."

Head coach Rich Hustedt anticipates a winning season in 1990.

Track & Field:

Last January Mel Torme performed with the Indianapolis Symphony. But we're not talking about good ol' Mel, this is boys' track.

The team did relatively well this season with 5 wins and 6 losses. James Cole took sixth place in the City meet for shot put and discus. He went on to place second in the Sectionals with a discus throw of 170'4" — a Marion County record. The freshmen won their City meet with outstanding performances by Kevin Gibson, Reggie Graves, William Johnson, Wilbur Westmoreland, and the 1600 meter relay team of Benamon, Wills, Doss, and Gibson. The varsity team finished well in the Sectionals with a second place.

All the guys worked hard. Track takes perseverance and endurance. It takes showing up for practice every day. It takes stretching muscles you didn't know you had. But, most of all it takes devotion. You've got to want to cross that finish line.

The girls' track team is always ready for a running start. We talked to the coach, Ms. Powell, and here is what we found.

Question: What were some of the exciting moments of the season?

Answer: Taking my 4x100 to the State Track meet and seeing Maggie Huskins take the Regional championship in the 800 meter.

Question: What were some of the downfalls?

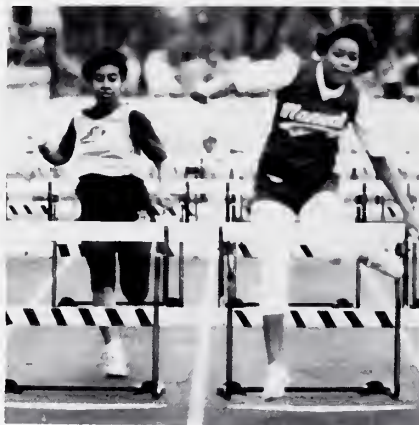

Answer: Lack of people coming out for track meets. We lost a heartbreaker to Howe.

I had four people absent that day.

Question: What are your goals for next season?

Answer: We want to finish first in the city. If I get as many talented runners this year as I did last year, we could do it.

Arnold Palmer, this years boys golf team coach — oh yeah. OK, so Arnold Palmer wasn't the coach but that doesn't matter, because this year's boys golf team didn't just putt-er around.

The team, coached by Pack Craig, came in second to Howe with 342 and came in seventh in the city with 361. The guy who putt-ered around the least (least number of putts) was Gary Powell.

The varsity awards went to Gary Powell, Frank England, Nick Ludlow, Eric Kehrt, and Robert Downey. The reserve award was given to Sam Breedlove. Anthony Pero received the freshman award. Frank England averaged the lowest score for 1989 with a 46.4, and placed third in the IPS Tournament. These guys didn't "fore" around. Congrats!

Guys aren't the only ones with good putts, girls have an eye for them as well. Golf has long been a sport of equal opportunity for men and women, but not at Manual. The first girls golf team in the history of Manual High School went for success. The team, made up of Enteec Rudolph, Kim Rosa, Dana Ruth, and Shanna Hacker, were all beginning "golfers" and did outstandingly well for their first season. Their coach was Sue McNiel, who was tremendously proud of them.

The team placed third in the IPSAC Tourney and fifth in the City Tourney. Coach McNiel said, "The girls on this original team, however, will always be special."

Here, in the Manual Zone.

... Budding Young Athletes ...

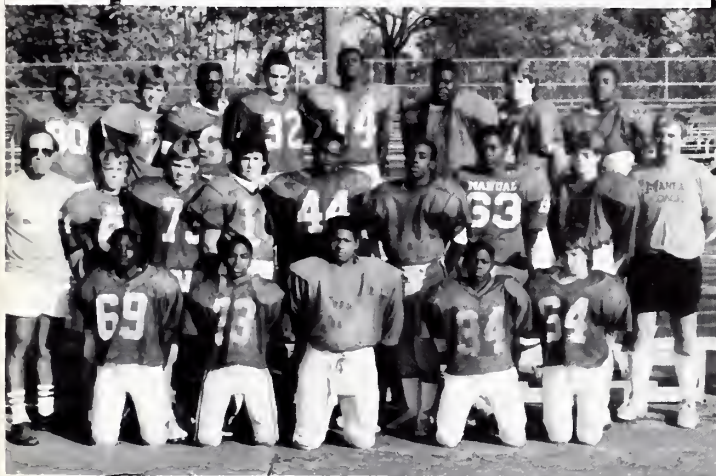

Freshman teams such as Basketball and Football serve as an introduction for new students at Manual to high school sports. Here basics are learned and inherent abilities fine tuned. No more going out for ice cream with the coach after the game this is high school.

They could be called budding young athletes endeavoring to do their best, but they're probably better known as the Freshman Basketball Team. This year's ensemble of youth and talent took a head start, and displayed the skill to spark the interest of Coach Belser, in fact the team only lost three games out of the whole season, taking themselves to the city tourney. A good season to say the least.

Ah, but let us not forget the Freshman Football Team, that stealthy band of men destined to be combatants in the search for victory. The team had a rough year with no wins but are now better prepared for next year, having already experienced this one, and can prepare themselves for what lies ahead.

Beginning the follow through of his serve, Shawn Ward hits a winner.

If a .060 kg ball was dropped from a vertical distance of 33.5 feet at a rate of 9.81 m/s^2 , how long would it take for the ball to reach the ground?

Unless you are a physics student, you probably can't answer this question. But, then again chances are you probably can't play tennis either.

This year's Manual tennis team won 14 inner-city matches, 3 City Tourney matches, and five matches at the IPSAC Tournament. In the 88/89 season, there have been some exciting times, but not without a lot of sweat-filled practices.

What's our problem in the world today? Not enough people play football! Think of it. If everyone played football, a sense of community would be gained. Different kinds of people in different kinds of places everywhere striving for a common goal! Win! Massacre 'em! It could start with neighborhood teams, and pretty soon the leaders of the world could get a team together. Problems like nuclear war would take a back seat to pass plays, quarterback fakes and blitzes.

Well, maybe not. But, football is still important. The guys on the team work really hard at what they do. And, let's face it, not everyone can play football, not like these guys.

The illustrious Redskins started the year with two ties against Tech and Arlington. "Are you ready?", "Red pressure", and "Slobberknockers" were some of the plays our football team pulled off.

Manual's football players are full of spirit and pride.

Building Team Strives

The players are fired up and ready to play.

Junior varsity football. Let's see. The abbreviation for junior varsity is JV, as opposed to senior varsity, SV. But, SV doesn't sound too hot so we just keep it the way it is.

Most of the guys on the team came from freshmen football so they know what's going on. Even though they had a season with 3 wins and 5 losses, it doesn't mean they didn't give it their best shot.

This year's junior varsity consisted of a lot of hard working people giving up after school activities, such as catching a flick or going out with a girlfriend, to improve their playing skills. Practice makes perfect, so keep it up.

Second To None

The Midwest is known for a few products and known for them throughout the country, too. Now, whether or not this area we live in is actually the absolute middle of the west is debatable, but the fact that we produce an awful lot of really good corn and young basketball players isn't. But, what would you rather watch? Corn or basketball?

Forget the corn husks. This is Redskin basketball! This year's team just couldn't help but bust the moves against teams like Roncalli, Scecina, and Southport. They ended the regular season with a record of 13 and 7 and managed to average at least 63 points per game. Our boys were also chosen as the basketball team of the week on February 21, 1990 by Channel 8.

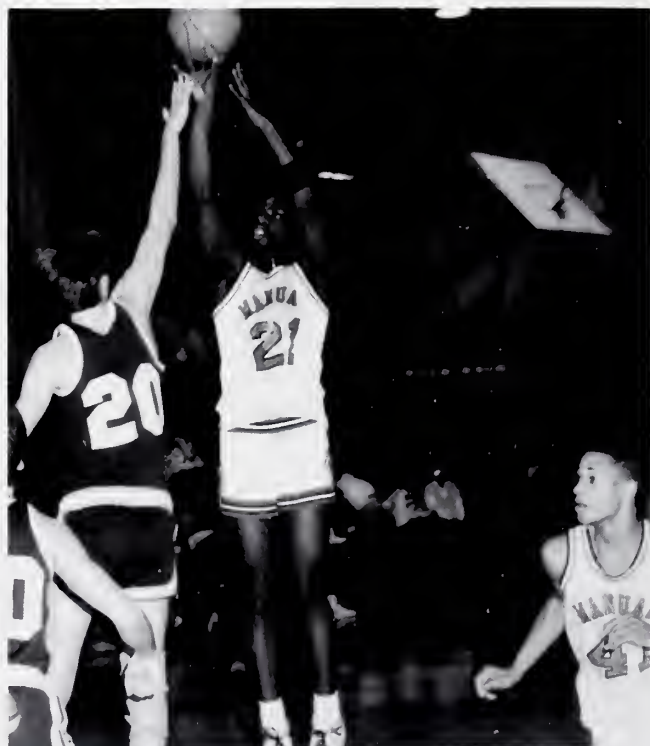

Now, is that enough to keep Manual spirit alive? The answer is YES!

Senior Mike Helm jumps over the defender for two.

Through the ages, as time ebbed and flowed, the wide world of sports has been, for the most part, dominated by men. Until one day someone thought it proper to think of E.R.A., Equal Rights for All, and since then women have carved a path right into sports as we know them today.

The Girls Varsity Basketball Team got off to a rough start, but with team work, effort and a dab of dedication, they came up on top. The team had only 6 players but that didn't seem to matter.

It's not the wins and losses that count but what you earn from your mistakes, and that's why the girls this year claimed so many victories. With a strong captain, and outstanding performances by the rest of the team they became winners.

Girls Get it Together

Patsy Pierce holds on to the ball as her opponent tries to make a steal.

Phinesha Walker, junior, shoots for two points as opponents and teammate Renee Berry look on.

Nancy Pruett, senior, shows good form as she shoots the ball.

What could you learn from tolling around with another sweaty guy day after day for hours at a time? Well nothing, unless you're on the wrestling team, but many valuable lessons are taught here. Like perseverance, patience, strength, endurance not to mention self-reliance. If you don't believe it, just keep reading.

The wrestling team had a successful season. The team was led by three seniors, Keith Thacker, Marius Cook and John Russel. Mark Beard was the only redskin to be city champion. In the I.P. S.A.C. there were three wrestlers that took first place, Marius Cook, Mark Beard and Keith Thacker. In the Bloomington Invitation, there were two wrestlers to take first, Marius Cook and Keith Thacker. In the sectionals two redskins took first place, Marius Cook and Keith Thacker. This year there were seven records broken. Mark Beard has the junior take down record with 54 take downs. Keith Thacker holds the most career take downs with 152. Jamie Brickley and William Johnson holds the most falls for sophomore with 13 falls. Jamie Brickley and William Johnson holds the most sophomore points. Sophomore Jamie Brickley has the most wins. Junior Mark Beard holds the record for the most points and the most falls. The team's record for the end of the season was 14-10.

Mark Beard does it again and scores another point.

Keith Thacker and Marius Cook practice their moves.

Every year the students and faculty of Manual High School get all hyped up in preparation for Sectionals. Well, this year was no exception. Our team, our cheerleaders, our faculty, and not to mention us, the students, showed school spirit supporting our team . . . and for a good reason.

Sectionals this year were once again held at Southport High School. Southport High's airplane hanger gym was a great place for the game, but a popular question kept arising, "Aren't the goals lower?" Well, no, it only looks that way.

Perry Meridian was our first opponent. They tried and tried, but just couldn't cope with our boys on the court. So the skins once again came away with a victory, 68-53. Our second opponent was Decatur Central High School. Our team was hungry for victory, but the Decatur Hawks must have been starving. It was a good game. Manual and Decatur battled back and forth, exchanging points for points, but in the end we lost the game that dictated the end of Manual's involvement in Sectionals. So, now our boys look forward to next year for another shot at the Sectional title.

Often times school teams are looked upon as separate entities. Well, this year that didn't happen. It seemed as if when the team won, we won, not just in the stats but inside us all, and when the team lost, we lost. So, like the Phoenix arises from the flame, so will Manual next year at Sectionals.

Sectionals -

Exchanging Points for Points

Mono Ford enters the game in time to make his move.

Mike Helm fights way through the Decatur defense.

Making one of the last shots of the game Doug Warren leaves the Decatur cheerleaders in awe.

James Cole puts into operation his defensive moves.

The Manual Crowd shakes and yells to motivate the Redskins.

Most of the time when someone thinks of a cheerleader — if they think of a cheerleader — one pictures a pleasant-lookin' person filled with fluff. Not so with the Manual cheerleaders.

Most of the cheerleaders are in the top of their classes. This is a great challenge because, not only do they have to juggle school work and cheerleading, they have jobs too.

Cheerleaders don't really put on their tennis shoes until summer when they attend a cheer camp. Then, guess what? It's practice twice a week from August until March (assuming we do well in the Sectionals).

The girls have to raise the money to buy new uniforms. That's where the candy sales, Christmas candy grams, and other functions come in. They support the school; the school, in turn, supports the cheerleaders when the students and teachers buy the candy.

Another group that supports the cheerleaders are the Boostermen — literally and figuratively. They are volunteers who practice with the cheerleaders during basketball season. It's because of the Boostermen that the cheerleaders can build the intricate mounts that they do.

The Manual Varsity Cheerleaders say hello!

The Boostermen show their stuff; Chris Warner, Daniel Drummond, Steve Reeve, Chris Pero, and Jason Smith

Most students think being a teacher is pretty easy. Seniors, however, have the opportunity to discover the truth once a year on Turnabout Day.

The seniors find teaching to be a great deal of fun — they also discover that maintaining a classroom takes some control.

The turnabouts also discover that there are some perks to being a teacher. They get an hour for lunch, they usually have another hour to prepare for classes, and they got to enjoy a tea in their honor.

The best thing about Turnabout Day, though, is that it is one more rung on the ladder toward graduation.

Seniors Take

Over Teachers!

Senior Sandy Hawley, Turnabout for Ms. Copher, is ready to take control.

Michele McFarland keeps things running for Mr. Austin.

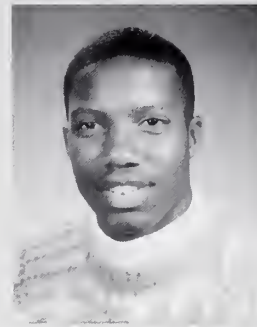

Catrice Young plays at being the school nurse.

 ROLAND YEAGER
 SONYA YUNT

Senior Sandra Hawley opens the game with a hello cheer with the help of Boostermen Steve Reeve, Dannie Drummond, and Chris Pero.

One of the highlights of Parents' Night was the introduction of JV coach Mr. Craig with his wife and son.

Teachers & Counselors & Deans: Oh My!

Right about 7:30 in the morning, most people are giving the first yawn and blink, while stretching out sleep-filled muscles . . . but not teachers. No, they are thrust into a world of education where they must be dedicated and skillful in order to carry out their duties. These unfortunate few must face the world of teenage mutants with open arms . . . and love it.

We use the word teacher here a little loosely.

There are many people we come in contact with here at Manual; however, not all of them are involved in the academic side of the classroom. Housed under the name of "teacher" are people like principals, counselors, deans, secretaries, and nurses. Each person has some kind of influence on us, and, in some cases, an influence that may last a lifetime.

Eugene Austin, Manual's principal, was born July 9, 1935 in Dunnville, KY. He moved to Indianapolis in 1942 and enrolled in School #39. After graduating from Manual in 1956, he earned numerous degrees and has been at Manual since 1987.

Manual's vice-principal, Lou Caporale, was born and reared in New Jersey. After receiving his B.A. from Butler University, he started with the Indianapolis Public Schools at School #76. He's been with IPS for 32 years; he's been at Manual for the past 13.

The elder of two brothers, vice-principal Ligon Drane earned his B.A. in psychology at Tennessee State University. After receiving his master's from BSU, he taught at his alma mater, School #36. Drane was Dean of Students at Attucks, Vice-principal at Howe, and then, finally, moved to Manual in 1987.

Starting at 8:15 every school morning, Mrs. Richardson walks the halls until 1:15, making sure students have passes. Most of the students don't give her any trouble. One reason may be that her son, Chris Slaughter, attends Manual. Mrs. Richardson really enjoys her job, and in her own words, "It's a good job."

Manual's new Home Economics department head is Mrs. Niarchos. Mrs. Niarchos came from George Washington High School where she was a special education and resource teacher. Mrs. Niarchos teaches Clothing, Personal Development, and Child Development.

The secretary at every school is important. Here at Manual that secretary is Miss Hafer. For the past 44 years, she's served as a key part of the faculty. Her longevity may be attributed to the fact that she herself is a Manual graduate. Through the years, the staff has changed, but Miss Hafer maintains that she enjoys her job "very much."

Jeff M. Leak. You've given me so much that I can't repay. I love you, Tweet-tweet

Start OR keep up the good work. Mr. Weaver

Jenn (Butch), Man, we had fun, didn't we? I hope we have this much fun next year. Keep on thrashin'! Chopper (Kris, the Fighting Turtle)

Tatto Mats, Hey, Man! We had fun, didn't we? Too bad you have to go back home. I hope that you can come back sometime. Don't take crap from no one, Keep thrashin'! From, Kris

Dear Hobo: The greatest, nicest, most normal person I know. And, also my best friend. We sure have been through a lot! Love, Buster

To Misty L., Sheille, Renee, Kim, Shannon, Brad, Carolyn, Deanna, Misty P., Kattanya, Jason, Cindy, Jenny, and all the other people I've met, I'm honored to have known you all! Love, Jenny Lyster

To Mrs. Busch: For all the times I didn't talk in class, SHUT UP!! Love, J. Lyster

Mrs. Miles: Clean those desks, water those plants, file those papers. You're still the greatest. Love, Jennifer

Miss Copher, You're not crazy, you're a teacher. Headline, deadlines, and pictures, Aaaaaahh! Love, Jennifer Buster, Well, it's been a nice five years of friendship. I hope to have five more and five more after that. Love, Hobo P.S. Want to make some Glurch? Maybe pink this time around, OK?

Many, many thanks to all the staff and faculty of Manual High School for answering all of our questions. The Ivian Staff

To Michelle: A girl I've loved from Day #1 and I always will. From, David (The Dog) Milburn

Happiness and success to my FA seniors! Mrs. Guignard

To Masomas, You're a great group of gals! Mrs. Plummer

To every EMHS student, You can all just kiss off into the air, behind my back I can see you stare, you hurt me bad, you do it all the time. Anonymous

To Renee, You're the greatest sister. I know you'll be successful. I love you, Robin

Robin Berry, You really changed my life since I've gotten to know you better I love you very much. Love, Jeff

Congratulations to all the art students who worked so hard, won so many awards, and gave so much to the Art Department. Thanks! Mrs. Kay Clay

The 1989-90 BOOSTER staff would like to say "Thank you" for the support they received in all of their endeavors.

Shauna, You are my very best friend. I love you with all my heart. I could never have survived this pit without you. I'll be your true friend forever. I'm here for you. Love always, your best friend, Sandy

Erica, As you see my head on the door, speaking of you as sweet as Icing Sugar, I hope you see my love sing out to you! I love you! Jeff

Erica, May our problems cease forever, and our love last for just one more lifetime. And, may your beauty light the earth, and be remembered for all time. Love, Jeff

Tony & Lincoln, Bite me! You both stink! You stealthy homos you! Tourque me! Jeff

Robert Spears, I love you! I know it will be me and you forever. Love Always, Amy (Pebbles)

To all my teachers, directors and classmates. Thank you from Jaimie Duarte (AFS Exchange Student)

To Manual High School and everyone I know: Thanks for giving me a memorable year. Liv Henriksveen

To the Saturday IVIAN crew — Just remember, without women in the world nothing would ever get done. From, "Now who's coming in this Saturday?"

To all IVIAN staff members: Without you this book would simply be blank pages. You filled them in rather nicely, I think. In more ways than one, my first yearbook staff is truly unforgettable. Miss Liz Copher

ROOT Photographers is the Official Senior Portrait and Yearbook Photographs for Manual High School

What does this mean to you?

It means . . .

Your school has selected ROOT because of its excellence in Senior Portraiture. Its 100 years of experience in school photography. Its fine portrait quality and sensible prices.

It means . . .

Choosing an optional supreme sitting — more poses, changes of clothes, more posing styles, more props — a truly rewarding experience.

It means . . .

Being photographed by a ROOT senior portrait specialist who will capture your true personality in a portrait that will be treasured as a graduation memoir for many years.

Time as he grows old teaches all things.

— Aeschylus

Next year there will be a new class of seniors, new freshman in the halls, and a few new classes. Things happen, people move onto another sometimes better zone. This year Manual will lose six well-loved and respected personalities. To Fred Bennett, Charlotte Hafer, Lou Caporale, Catherine Timberman, Jack Weaver, and Carl Wright, we wish you well and leave you with one last humorous thought . . .

I never forget a face,
but in your case
I'll make an exception.

— Groucho Marx

The Ivian staff would like to thank the Manual High School custodial staff for their unending support during the last year: Al Baxter, Bennie Bryant, Luther Chandler, Perry Dew, John Green, Francis Hayes, Charlotte Huber, Peggy Kellum, Dwayne Tunstill, John Penrose, Joe Van Buskirk, Tamara Watkin, Patrich Sylvia.

Manual High School's Class of 1956 SCHOLARSHIP FUND

This scholarship is given every year to a deserving senior who fulfills the following requirements: will attend an Indiana school, has good citizenship, and who supports Manual High School to the fullest.

Many thanks to the Board of Directors without whom neither this scholarship nor this ad would be possible.

A SMALL PLACE IN THE UNIVERSE, AND YET A WORLD UNTO ITSELF.
